Gospel Songstress Theresa Pinkney Opens Up About Infertility In Her New Single, “The Child That I Prayed For”

(Washington, DC) – August 23, 2016 - According to the National Center for Health Statistics, a division of the Center of Disease Control and Prevention, over 12% of women between the ages of 15-44 struggle with infertility. That number amounts to a staggering 7.5 million women in the U.S. Award-winning Gospel artist Theresa Pinkney has found herself included in these disparaging numbers. Married for close to 18 years now, she and her husband Ronald have been hoping for a child since they got married. Last year, she was led to consider adoption. Gifted as a songwriter, Theresa couldn't help but chronicle her thoughts and journey to adoption through her music. The result is the single, “The Child That I Prayed For”, a touching and inspirational tune sung to God, the birth parent and her future adoptive child. The track is available for purchase on iTunes, Amazon, Google Play and other digital outlets. Theresa shares her thoughts in a personal YouTube video.

Theresa is excited about what's to come as she embarks on a brand new journey. She says, “I thank God for this wonderful journey. God's plan for me and his will is what is best for our family. When i embraced this with my whole heart i was truly open and excited about adoption. I meditated on 1 Samuel 1:27 which has helped me over the years. I prayed for the child that God would bring in our lives. The song came to my heart as a thank you to God, the birth parent and the beautiful child that God in his timing will place in our life and heart.”

The track is a part of the artist's upcoming CD release, Transformed. The upcoming project, the singer's sophomore release, finds her spreading her musical wings from her critically-acclaimed debut, Me Against The World. Produced by Jaida Thompson and DJ Bam, the CD showcases Theresa's growth, both musically and spiritually. Scheduled for release in early 2017, the project's new singles, "Transformed" and "Front Line", have already been hitting the airwaves of Gospel radio. The upcoming CD's new single, "The Child That I Prayed For" will be serviced to radio as well.

Known for her soaring soprano vocals and her uplifting songs, Pinkney is no novice in the music industry. A multiple award-winning artist, she gained fans with her up-tempo track, "Count It All Joy" from her debut release. A graduate of Washington, D.C.'s prestigious Duke Ellington School of the Arts, Pinkney is a former member of the Gospel ensembles, Just Breathe and Pastor Earl Miller & Purity. In 2011, she stepped out as a solo artist with Me Against The World. For more information on Theresa Pinkney, log on to www.TheresaPinkney.com.
